Don't Call Me Girlie (1987) with soundtrack

Directed by Stewart Young Australia 69 minutes

The Festival acknowledges the generous assistance of Andrew Pike OAM - Managing Director of Ronin Films- in the presentation of this documentary.

Evan Williams: “..often hilarious and crammed with enchanting detail.”
Vogue: “Highly entertaining...illuminating and captivating.”

Ronin Films: “ From the birth of the cinema to World War 11, Don't Call Me Girlie tells the untold story of Australia's movie heroines, on and off the screen. Discover the roles our women filmmakers really played- on screen as stars, behind the cameras, as producers, writers, directors and publicists.

Contemporary interviews and archival footage are combined to illustrate the triumphs and tragedies, scandals and successes of the extraordinary women who worked in the golden years of Australia's movie industry.”

November 7 Friday at 2pm , Suddenly (1954) starring Frank Sinatra with soundtrack

Australian premiere of a digital restoration of the acclaimed film. The Festival acknowledges the generous assistance of David Shepard and Blackhawk Films.

Directed by Lewis Allen USA 76 minutes

Blackhawk Films' Collection: "Terror comes to the sleepy small town of Suddenly when a cold-blooded assassin takes a family hostage. Now, the clock is ticking and every precious second counts as they band together to stop this methodical killer before he can carry out his shocking plan. Academy Award winner, Frank Sinatra, gives a "tour de force" (The New York Times) performance in the most astonishing role of his career. Sterling Hayden costars as the sheriff who is pitted against this cool and cunning psychopath in a tense battle of wills. Available in pristine HD with superior picture and sound, this is the definitive collector's edition of this controversial classic of unnerving suspense."

www.blu-ray.com/movies: ".....this release by Image Entertainment (with its) ... 1080p, AVC-encoded presentation should render all prior versions obsolete. Described as "transferred from original 35mm studio fine grain master print", the Blu-ray image reflects a remarkably clean source. The clarity of what's there is excellent, with deep blacks and finely delineated shades of gray."

We acknowledge the invaluable and generous support from the renowned David Shepard, Andrew Pike OAM, Film Preservation and Associates and Blackhawk Films, Lobster Films, Jeff Masino, Flicker Alley, Samantha Hagan, Marcelo Flaksbard and his wonderful team, Leslie Eric May and the sublime flair and talents of Stephanie Khoo.
